Clubs that wish to be select, if they require the exclusive use of a particular piece of ground, Case. Per Bot. should be called upon to acquire the ground on the same terms as private individuals. The Recreation Club has proved a much greater boon to the public at large under its actual constitution than it would have proved had it been more exclusive, and it is the good > is called upon to consider. But let us examine the position of those from whom the objection to the proposed Athletic Club proceeds. They base their objection on public grounds, but as a matter of fact they are the representatives of the Golf and Polo Clubs. Some of them have signed the protest, we understand in other capacities, but they are active members of the Clubs we have named, and it will probably not be unfair to suppose that it was the nterests of those institutions rather than solicitation for the interests of the public that impelled them to take the action, they have. What is desired on their part is that the ground hitherto known as the Public Gardens should be thrown into the Bowen Park, which would diminish the chance of the ground required for golf or polo being occupied for cricket or other games. These gentlemen cannot, however, be charged with inconsistency in the attitude they have taken up, because they themselves, while using Bowen Park for their games, exercise no proprietary or leasehold rights over it, so that they are in a position to object to such rights being given to others if they think fit to do so... This is all very well in theory, but we must confess that it s, not without som; misgivings, that we see Bowen Park being monopolise I by the Clubs in question. The pond is being filled in for 0.75 - the Golf Club at the expense of the public. By and by it will come to be understood that these institutions have some prescriptive rights over the ground, and the public generally will not be much better off than while at Bangkok so astonished the King of Governor, being ignorant of what Vortex the they were before the swamp which existed in the interior of the Rucecourse was filled n and transformed into Bowen Park. And the Governor might at any time by a stroke of the pen give rights over the ground to private Clubs. Although it was formally onened by our late Governor, Sir George Bowen, as a public park, it has never been in any way legally vested in trustees for the of his death till the second engineer went to his public. In the Waterworks Bill it has been thought necessary to make special provision against the alienation of land in gathering areas, and it seems no less reasonable that Bowen Parkshould be legally declared an inalienable public recreation ground by Ordinance. in which provision should also be made for its management, so that it should be placed beyond the power of any Governor to tamper with it without going through formalities which would ensure a due amount of public discussion. Every Club should of course have the right of using the ground subject naturally to the existence of similar rights in other Clubs.
